INSTITUTION for the DEAF and DUMB and the BLIND

Erected on Five acres of Land on the Newtown Road, built of Patent Pressed Bricks on Stone Foundations. The Foundation Stone was laid by His EXCELLENCE THE EARL OF BELMOR, on April 3rd, 1871. Opened publicly in February, 1872.

HINTS TO PARENTS.

Written for the Ulster Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the Blind, by the Reverend JOHN KINGHAM, Principal.

THE time allowed for the education of the Deaf and Dumb in our Institution being necessarily so very limited, it is of the greatest importance that the attention of their friends should be directed to the early and proper training which some children ought to receive. If there were only a willing mind, parents and friends might do much, by preparatory training at home, to facilitate the progress of these children on admission to our Institution, as well as to benefit them when they leave it.

I. UNEDUCATED DEAF AND DUMB CHILDREN.

Such children could easily be taught to write on a slate, or otherwise, in their own homes, or with their brothers and sisters in the common school of the neighbourhood. When the child can form letters on a slate, it should be taught the manual alphabet. This may be done thus. Write the letter a on a slate, draw the child's attention to it, then teach it to put its hand in the position indicated in the engraved manual alphabet for a. Repeat this till the sight of the letter readily suggests this particular position of the hand. Let the instructor then form this letter on his own hand, and see if the child can write the letter. In the same way proceed with the other letters. The alphabet having been thus learned, give the child names of objects, or animals with which it is familiar, beginning with words of three letters, as hat, dog, pig, cow, pin, &c. Thus: Write very plainly the word hat. Then let the child form the letters h a t on its fingers, and next point to a hat. Let this process be frequently repeated, till the letters come to be associated with the object, and fixed in the memory of the child. This being done, blot out the word, point again to the object, and see if the child can write hat; and if so, proceed gradually to teach other words in the same manner, such as those for parts of the body, articles of dress, furniture, tools, &c. Pictures of objects may be used with much profit.

Colours and numbers might also be taught. In teaching numbers, give the child a few objects to count, and let them be written down thus: 1, one; 2, two; 3, three.

II. DEAF AND DUMB PUPILS AT HOME DURING VACATION.

At this time they should be taught the names of parents, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, cousins, &c. Thus: Uncle Andrew Brown, Aunt Charlotte Dixon, &c. Names of places, particularly the residence of friends, neighbouring towns, &c., might be given. When the name is first taught, the person or place named must be shown to the child.

Various operations connected with agriculture and with the trades carried on in their neighbourhood, might be explained to these children, which would be very difficult to teach in an Institution; for many of these must be seen to be fully understood.

Induce pupils while at home to spend some time daily in revising lessons in their school-books.

III. DEAF MUTES WHO HAVE LEFT SCHOOL.

When pupils finally leave school, much may be accomplished by friends in the way of carrying forward their education. They should converse much with these children, in very simple language, on religious and other subjects, by means of the manual alphabet and by writing. The use of signs except when trying to explain difficult words should be avoided and discouraged. For example, instead of signifying to the child Bring me a chair, write these words or spell them, and always oblige the child to write or spell what it has to express, and correct for it any errors in the language it employs. By adhering to this course, a desire will be excited in the minds of these children to acquire and keep up a correct style in the use of written language—an attainment on their part of the greatest difficulty, and yet of the highest importance.

Attention is specially directed to the importance of having these pupils immediately apprenticed to some trade, or occupied in some useful employment, on their return home, by which they may be kept from acquiring idle habits, and be put in the way of earning their own livelihood. The Committee will assist, when necessary, in carrying this out.

In the management of these children, let parents and friends beware of the extremes of over-indulgence on the one hand, or of undue severity on the other. Such children suffer very much from injudicious kindness, or from violent and rude opposition. In general they should be treated very much like other children, and taught to feel in every respect they are responsible beings.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
NEW SOUTH WALES

Institution for the Deaf & Dumb, & the Blind.

For the Year ending September 30th, 1878.

The Committee in presenting to the Subscribers and the Public their Report of the Twelve months work, have again the pleasure of congratulating all concerned on the very satisfactory position of the Institution.

The year just ended has been an eventful one for the Institution, and the first subject claiming attention, is the

PROGRESS OF THE PUPILS.

This has been satisfactory, though perhaps somewhat checked through Mr. Watson's absence in England for seven months. The new books for the Blind mentioned in last report, were received shortly after the holding of the Annual Meeting, and found of great benefit.

The Annual Examination was held on December 22nd last, and as usual, Prizes were distributed.

HEALTH OF THE PUPILS.

Has been unusually good. Dr. Renwick's services as before having been freely given. The appearance of the Children indicates the care and attention bestowed upon them. It may be opportune here to draw attention to a matter of great importance—viz., the erection of a Detached Hospital, for the use of the children, and for isolation, should any epidemic arise. The Committee, after serious consideration, have finally decided to carry out this object, and the Fund at their disposal, now amounting to £850, has been devoted towards this highly necessary work.

NUMBER OF INMATES.

The last report showed that there were 70 Inmates, and 5 have been admitted since, (4 Deaf and Dumb, 1 Blind,) making a total of 75. 14 of these have left, some to go to Trades, others to their Friends; all having received an incalculable advantage during their stay in the Institution.

Applications for the admission of 6 have been granted, but the children have not yet been received; and several applications are pending further particulars being forwarded.

FINANCIAL.

The amount of Subscriptions, &c., has increased £271 6s. 9d. The country receipts being as usual satisfactory, and the Committee have again to tender their thanks for the substantial assistance which has been afforded. The Balance last year was £130 14s. 5d., in addition to £300 applied towards the erection of the Dwarf Wall and Railings.

The Government grant for 1877, was not received in time to be included in last years financial statement; consequently two grants appear in the Balance Sheet now presented.

The increased amount of Receipts enable the Committee to appropriate £850 towards the erection of the intended Hospital.

Early in the year it was found impossible for the sole Collector to canvass thoroughly this Colony and Queensland; consequently a second Collector, Mr. W. B. Stevens, was appointed for Queensland. He has collected £400 and discovered the existence of 8 or 9 Deaf and Dumb and Blin'd Children; 5 of whom he will bring with him on his return, and the others will probably come in due course. The appointment of Mr. Stevens has turned out an advantage in this respect, and he has also visited the Friends of some of the Children, awakening greater interest, and securing an increased amount of support in Queensland for the 18 Children received from that Colony.

The Special Receipts and Donations, are as under—

Legacy of Mr. William Dale, per Rev. Canon Stephen	£100	0	0
„ Mrs. Sarah White, per Hon. James White	50	0	0
„ William Barnett, per Mr. George Merriman	40	0	0
„ William Quinn, per Shepherd Smith, Esq.	25	0	0
„ Jean Malcolm	6	1	8

Donation of F. H. Dangar, Esq.	£	50	0	0
Richard Slee, Esq...		50	0	0
Collection—Mr. A. Thomas, Queensland Railway Line		33	4	0
Gerringong Municipal Council		35	2	0
Mr. W. G. O'Neil		31	4	6

And other smaller amounts. One Bequest deserves special notice, not from the amount, but the feelings which prompted it; this is 14s., the whole earthly possession of a Prisoner who died in East Maitland Gaol.

The Receipts for School Foes and Clothing, amount to £482 13s. 10d., as against £563 19s. last year, showing a decrease of £81 5s. 2d. There is yet some School Fees due from the parents of children in the country, but the bad seasons have hindered them paying promptly.

IMPROVEMENTS AND ADDITIONS.

The erection of the Dwarf Wall rendered some additional planting of Shade Trees desirable. This has been completed through the kindness of Mr. Charles Moore, Director of the Botanical Gardens. A large amount of Fencing has also been erected.

GENERAL.

The Committee have to express their deep regret at the loss the Institution has sustained by the death of the Rev. Dr. Lang, who took an active part for so many years in its management, and worked zealously for its welfare. The Committee immediately after the sad event, sent a letter of condolence and sympathy to his bereaved family.

The Committee take this opportunity of acknowledging the valuable assistance so cheerfully given by the Press of this Colony and Queensland, and the readiness displayed in furthering the work of the Collectors by notices and paragraphs inserted gratuitously.

It is also here the Committee have to acknowledge many other kind and valuable services. Among them the Picnic given the Children and Officers by Lady Hay, at her residence. The invitation to the Newtown Sunday School Picnic, per Mr. Crane; and the Collection at St. Ann's Church, Ryde, per the Churchwardens, for a Treat to the Children; as also Mr. Seymour, for frequent Donations of Fresh Fish; Mr. Wigzell, Hair cutting.

The Committee have now to refer to the visit of Mr. Watson to Great Britain and America. Mr. Watson, finding his seven years residence in the Institution and the arduous character of his work had rendered a change desirable, applied for leave of absence to visit Europe, and at the same time to enquire into all the newest and most advanced methods of imparting instruction to the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind; also to obtain a supply of the most modern appliances and apparatus. Accordingly, the Committee granted the leave applied for, and have the pleasure to report Mr. Watson's safe return after having devoted the greater portion of his time to the purpose above set forth; he has returned with renewed strength and energy to his duties, having acquired much information in England, Scotland, Ireland and America. He has also purchased, and otherwise obtained, a splendid assortment of Books and Material, a small portion of which is now in the Harbour, and the remainder will shortly arrive.

The Committee desire to acknowledge most gratefully, the very kind assistance and valuable help given to Mr. Watson by the Managers of the numerous Institutions he visited, and the courteous manner in which he was every where received. They have also to thank many kinds friends for Donations of Books, &c., &c.

In accordance with the Rules, the following Gentlemen have been appointed Life Directors, viz., Mr. James R. Fairfax, Rev. James Milne, M.A., Dr. A. Renwick, Mr. James Henry and Mr. Robert Hills. The Rev. James Milne has also been appointed Vice-President in room of the late Dr. Lang.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, the Committee have to report the Institution in a very flourishing condition, the health of the Children good, and the whole Establishment in such a state that they may consider this Report one of the most satisfactory and encouraging they have had the pleasure of yet placing before the public. They now commend the Institution and its inmates to the care of that Divine Providence who "ordereth all things for good." And to Him they offer their heartfelt thanks for the success attending their efforts.

G. KING, President.

ELLIS ROBINSON, Hon. Secretary.

VISIT OF ROYAL COMMISSIONERS ON CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The gentlemen appointed as a Royal Commission to report upon the charities of the colony, paid a visit of inspection in due course to this Institution, and in their most exhaustive and able report notified their impressions as being most satisfactory, and the following extract from the Second Report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire into, and report upon, the Working and Management of the Public Charities of the Colony, 29th May, 1874, page 117 :—

“The Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind.—This Institution being to a small extent assisted by a Parliamentary vote, we made an inquiry into its management. We found it contained Twenty-one Deaf and Dumb Boys, and an equal number of Girls of the same class, besides Five Blind Boys and Seven Blind Girls, 54 in all. The management appeared to us to be good, and we remarked nothing calling for particular notice. The institution is conducted on unsectarian principles, and from its truly charitable character, is in every way deserving of public support.”

THE FOLLOWING IS THE REPORT PRESENTED TO THE GOVERNMENT AND PARLIAMENT BY THE INSPECTOR OF CHARITIES.

The Inspector of Charities reports of this Institution as follows :—

“This very popular and truly charitable institution is subsidized by Government only to the extent of £450, and is under the control of its own elected board and directory.

The objects set forth in its prospectus are to educate and maintain children deaf and dumb or blind, to enable them to earn their own living, make them useful members of society, and prevent them becoming burdensome to others in after life.

In order to enlarge the sphere of its operations, render the internal administration more economical, and so increase its means for imparting a thoroughly good system of education, the directors decided on admitting on certain conditions into the institution children from the neighbouring colonies of Queensland, Tasmania, and New Zealand, where to the present time no institutions of similar character exist. Among these conditions are two, viz. :—

1st. That a guarantee be given that a child on leaving the institution shall be conveyed to its own colony.

2nd. That its cost while in the school shall be paid by responsible parties to the extent of £25 per annum.

When obtainable, the above sum of £25 is always demanded, but pauper children residing in this colony are received free, and in cases where the parents or guardians cannot command the full sum, less is accepted after due inquiry.

No child is eligible under seven years of age, nor excepting in special cases, beyond twelve years.

As education can only be received slowly, owing to physical disability, pupils may continue in the institution until the age of eighteen. In the great majority of cases, however, they leave much earlier—say at fifteen or sixteen years old.

No trades are taught, experience in similar institutions elsewhere tending to show that it is preferable to confine the attention of pupils to their mental cultivation, leaving handicrafts to be acquired afterwards as apprentices, in ordinary workshops. I have not myself collected sufficient evidence to express any opinion as to the correctness of this theory, but in practical working the plan is unavoidable so long as the numbers to be taught are very limited, as at present is the case.

The domestic work of the establishment is all done by the pupils (the deaf mutes). The blind who show talent are taught music, with a view to its becoming a means of livelihood.

The conduct of such an institution has of course to be peculiar, and is in some respects necessarily expensive. The management appears excellent, and has the advantage of a ladies' committee, which works harmoniously with the matron of the institution. The children look clean and well cared for, happy and contented. As may be expected both from the slowness of its inception and the wide difference in the ages at which the pupils severally begin their education, the classes are very irregular. I observed also a considerable diversity of intellectual strength in the children.

A summary of the working of the institution from its foundation may be found in the following note, transcribed from the last published annual report :—

To 30th September last, there have been 131 children received—112 deaf and dumb and 19 blind; 60 have been returned: 6 were found idiotic and beyond the influence of education—these were removed to asylums for the insane ; 1 died ; 66 remained at date in the school. In 15 families, two or more were deaf mutes. 108 came from New South Wales, 17 from Queensland, 2 from New Zealand, 3 from Tasmania, and 1 from South Australia.

The balance-sheet for the year 1874 shows that the public subscribed a sum of £1428 18s. 9d., and that a further amount of £453 1s. 9d. was received for school fees and clothing. This is in most favourable contrast to the results shown by most of our other charitable institutions, where the difference between respective amounts of subscriptions and payments as compared with the Government subsidy is very discouraging.

Composition by the Pupils.

The following specimens of composition, or essays are the work of some of the elder pupils, (the subjects are of their own choosing) and receive no correction except such as their respective writers can make on a careful review, when the prominent errors are pointed out by a Teacher. In judging them it is well to remember the ages of the writers, and the length of time at school. And that very few, if any, had acquired a knowledge of written or spoken language previously to their admission into the Institution.

ABOUT THE CONGRESS AT BERLIN.

The Congress was held last June at Berlin in Prussia. Prince Bismark was the chairman at it. Some gentlemen from England, France, Austria, and Russia met there. They talked about the war between Russia and Turkey. The Congress remained at Berlin for many days. We hope that war has ended, and that there will be peace. The Russians are urging the Afghans to fight against the English. Lord Beaconsfield returned to England with Lord Salisbury after the Congress at Berlin. The people heartily welcomed him and they gave many addresses to Lord Beaconsfield. The Afghans have fought against the English. I think the Russians wish to take India. They are very ambitious to take India. The Afghans are wild mountaineers. Afghanistan is north of India. The Afghan ruler is called the Ameer. Cyprus now belongs to England. It is an Island in the Mediterranean Sea. The English were very glad to get Cyprus into their possession. I never saw Afghanistan. I saw the picture of Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury's return to England.

ABOUT A VISIT TO ENGLAND.

Mr. —— went to England last February by the "Stadt Amsterdam." He stayed at Melbourne about five days and saw all about it. After that he went to Adelaiade and then to Aden and Red Sea, touching at Suez, Port Said and Lisbon. He arrived in England safely on 3rd April. The "Stadt Amsterdam" went to England in about 63 days. He met his friends at home, and was very glad to see them. He went to see our dear friend Mr. Joy at the Isle of Wight. It lies south of Hampshire. It is a small but beautiful island. The ship touched at Plymouth. He stayed at home about 3 months, and then returned. He went from England to New York across the Atlantic Ocean. New York is a large and fine city. Afterwards he sat on the train and crossed America a distance of nearly 3000 miles. He passed over the Suspension bridge at the Falls of Niagara and saw the river Niagara. The train crossed the different bridges slowly. If it passed over very fast, the bridge would be broken and the people drowned in the river. He visited Deaf and Dumb and Blind Institutions at New York and other places. He saw many pupils in it. Some pupils there go home for vacation to see their parents as we do. The population of New York is over 1,000,000. The population of San Francisco is about 300,000. San Francisco is a large and growing city and there are many Chinese in it, also large hotels. He went from San Francisco to Auckland. He met John Selly who is a Deaf and Dumb saddler and who left School two years ago. He returned from Auckland to Sydney. He came to Sydney last September by the mail steamer Zealandia. He was very glad to see us I think.

ABOUT BELSHAZZAR.

Belshazzar was the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar and a bad King of Babylon. He was fond of eating drinking and of worldly pleasures. A thousand bright lamps shone in the hall of Belshazzar and 1000 nobles were eating with him. He saw the hand writing on the wall. It was written "Mene mene Tekel Upharsin." He shook and felt terrified. He commanded the wise men to expound the words but they could not. His wife said unto him that Daniel was a good man and he could interpret the vision. Daniel came and said that Nebuchadnezzar had been a wicked King whose heart was hardened and full of pride. He was deposed from his kingly throne and driven from men and made like the beasts. They fed him with grass like oxen. His body was wet with the dew of heaven until he knew that God ruled in the kingdom of men. He became humble after this. "Mene means God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Tekel means, Thou art weighed in the Balances and found wanting. Peres means Thy Kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians. Cyrus came that night with an army and slew him. Darius was the new King of Babylon. Daniel was chosen as the Chief of the Presidents by Darius. The new King loved Daniel greatly and gave him a gold chain to put round his neck.

ABOUT OBEDIENCE.

Good persons love, obey, and fear God. The fifth commandment teaches us to obey our parents, teachers, magistrates, and others. "Honour thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Paul says that, Children should obey their parents in the Lord, for this is right. Wicked children do not obey their parents. We read in the Bible about Absalom who was the son of David, and who dishonoured his father therefore God was angry with him and he was slain by Joab. God likes to see obedient and good people. God told Abraham that he should sacrifice his only son Isaac. Abraham obeyed God's command, for he had great faith. Peter told the Jewish Sanhedrin that he should obey God rather than man. God will bless obedient children. Jesus obeyed His parents. We should learn to be obedient at once. Many people are disobedient and bad, and do not obey God's commands. Paul says, "Wives should submit to their husbands. People should honor the King or governor. If children disobey their parents then God will be angry with them. They will be sent into hell. Eli's sons did not obey their father's Command, so they both died in battle against the Philistines. At first Paul obeyed the Jewish High priests in persecuting the christians, but he was converted on the way to Damascus. Samuel the prophet told King Saul that, "To obey is better than sacrifice. Saul had disobeyed God by not killing Agag. Agag was a wicked King of Amalek. Adam and Eve disobeyed God by eating the forbidden fruit, so God drove them out of the garden of Eden. Nebuchadnezzar made a golden image and ordered all his subjects to worship it, but Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego refused to obey him, so they were cast into the fiery furnace at Babylon, but God preserved them.

SPEECHES AND PROCEEDINGS
AT THE
SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL PUBLIC MEETING.

Extracted from the Daily Press.

The seventeenth annual meeting in connection with the New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the Blind, was held in the Institution, Newtown Road, yesterday. The chair was occupied by Sir John Hay, M.L.C., and the hall in which the proceedings took place was crowded, principally with ladies. Amongst those present were the Revs. G. King, W. F. B. Uzzell, J. Milne, William Hongh, Dr. Steel, J. Dark, the Hon. W. Marks, M.L.C.; Mr. John Davies, M.L.A., Messrs. W. Fowler, F. R. Robinson, H. Phillips, James Henry, G. F. Wise, D. A. Thomas, J. R. Love, E. Saber, Dr. Haylock, Dr. Renwick, Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Breillatt, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. Marks, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. Goodlet, Lady Hay, and others.

After some of the inmates had given a few manifestations of their vocal and instrumental abilities.

The CHAIRMAN explained the object of their meeting. He said, also, that he desired to call the attention of those present to a very important matter in connection with that and similar institutions. Mr. Watson, their superintendent, lately had leave of absence, both for the purpose of recruiting his health and to obtain information as to the improved methods of teaching the deaf and dumb and blind in England some parts of Europe, and America. That gentleman had returned, and brought with him a pamphlet containing questions and answers in connection with the vexed question discussed some time ago, and still undecided, as to whether they were in the right track in using signs or finger language in the instruction of the inmates of the institution, or whether they should put those systems in the background and favour teaching the mute children to communicate with each other, and with people endowed with ordinary senses and faculties, by means of articulation or observation of the lips. He explained that the system of teaching by articulation was not a novelty as was generally supposed, and affirmed that it had been in use in Germany and some parts of the Austrian dominions for some considerable time, where it was thought preferable to the sign and finger language system. It had also been in use in some institutions in Great Britain, and was amongst the earliest plans adopted for enabling mutes to converse. One of the ablest authorities on the subject wrote, as far back as 1690, of the mode of using the system of articulation, in the following quaint terms:—“ My first care is to make him to sound forth a voice without which all labour is lost, but that one point whereby deaf persons do discern a voice from a mute breath is a great mystery of art, and it is the hearing of deaf persons, or at least equivalent thereto, viz., that trembling motion and titillation which they perceive in their own throat, whilst they of their own accord do give out a voice. That the deaf may know that I intend to give out a voice I put their hand to my throat that they may be sensible of that tremulous motion when I utter my voice; then I put the same hand of theirs to their own throat and command them to imitate me; nor am I discouraged if their voice is hard and difficult, for in time it becomes more and more polite.” That described pretty fairly the first steps towards teaching the deaf and dumb to speak; and they know also that, in the celebrated school at Bermondsey, recourse was had to the system for teaching some of the most prominent pupils there. In other institutions in England, and indeed in some parts of France, he said the greatest reliance was placed on the system of teaching by signs and finger language. So they had opportunities of comparing the results of two systems. The German system, he stated had been taken up by the wealthy, and no doubt great good would result from their efforts; but it was necessary that they should hesitate before adopting a system which had not proved a general success in England, and at the sacrifice of what seemed to be an easy means for the deaf and dumb to communicate with their fellow-creatures. In order to place the matter a little more clearly before those who took an interest in it, he would read what he had set down concerning it as it at present stood:—There are two distinct methods of teaching—first, that in which the sign language and manual alphabet form the basis of instruction; and second, that in which articulation and lip-reading form the basis of instruction. In both of these the written language of the country is also taught. The former prevails in England, France, the United States, and in most continental countries, except Germany and the Austrian dominions, where the education of the deaf and dumb is undertaken directly by the State and conducted on the second method. In most cases, however, whichever the basis of instruction, a combined system is adopted more or less. In the one method with signs and finger reading as the rule articulation and lip-reading are used for the semi-dumb, semi-deaf, and for those of the congenitally deaf who have good capacities and show an aptitude for learning. In the other method with articulation and lip-reading as the rule, the sign language and finger reading are used more or less as means to an end. In some of the private schools in England, and in some large institutions which have lately come into notice there, it is understood that the pure German system, as it is called is adopted, by which the manual language and signs are entirely discouraged, and only articulation and lip-reading, in conjunction with written language, retained. Perhaps the merits of the system may be well expressed in the words of a very recent writer:—“ It would at first sight appear scarcely credible, without the guidance of the sense of hearing, that any person would be able merely by watching the position and actions of the organs of the voice, to utter articulate sounds with any tolerable perfection. Experience, however, has shown that this accomplishment, though laborious and tedious of acquisition, is not attended with extreme difficulty. Great patience, perseverance, and kindness are qualifications necessary on the part of the teacher to ensure success in ordinary cases, and the degree of success will greatly depend on the number of children among whom the teacher has to divide his attention. A wide difference must ever be perceptible between the speech of the deaf and those who hear. This artificial speech is laborious and constrained. It frequently conveys the idea of pain as well as effort, and as it cannot be regulated by the ear of the speaker, it is often too loud, and generally monotonous, harsh, and discordant. It is often from this cause scarcely intelligible, except to those who are accustomed to its tones. The system of articulation and lip-reading prevails in the German schools, where the art has been cultivated with greater success than in England, which must be attributed to the adaptability of the German language to this peculiar mode of acquiring speech." He understood that their teacher, Mr. Watson, on seeing the results of the most famous establishments in London, in which the articulation and lip reading systems were carried out, had arrived at the conclusion, that a combined system of signs of finger language was the best. It must be considered however, that articulation might be made useful to many of the deaf and dumb when they grew up. It seemed to be a system which the wealthy might take advantage of, but it was their duty to see that poor deaf and dumb children were suitably instructed, and with the fifty inmates of their institution they could scarcely hope to carry the system on to perfection, seeing that one person was required for several years to teach it to every six children. That, however, ought not to prevent their teaching the children in the most perfect manner possible, and they must take care to have opportunities given for every deaf and dumb child amongst them to acquire all in the way of tuition they were capable of receiving. They were, he said, entitled to assistance from the Government to enable them to do that, but he would not ask for so much assistance as would lead the Government to suppose they should have control of the institution, because, to his mind, it would not then thrive so well as it did under existing arrangements. As the State, however, was bound to provide for the education of every child, it was reasonable to suppose that it should, to some extent, provide for the education of the inmates of the institution. He concluded by saying that there was another institution for the blind which demanded their sympathies. It was situated in Boomerang-street, and, unfortunately, had come to a standstill for want of funds. He was confident that if its position were properly placed before the public, the public would supplement the amount left by a benevolent gentleman for building the institution. It was intended to elevate some of the adult blind from their present position, to teach them trades, to assist them in finding employers, to form a temporary home for them, and a dépôt where the goods they produced should be placed on sale. He would not detain them any longer, for he was convinced they had assembled to witness the performance of the children and the result of their training, rather than to hear long speeches.

Mr. ELLIS ROBINSON, the secretary, then read the Report, to be found on previous pages.

Mr. HENRY PHILLIPS, the treasurer, then read the balance-sheet, showing the income of the institution during the year, inclusive of a balance from the previous twelve months, to be £3570 15s. 2d., and the expenditure £3547 6s. 1d., thus leaving a small credit balance amounting to £23 9s. 1d.

The Rev. GEORGE KING proposed the adoption of the report. He said the report was of such a satisfactory character that it needed no argument to recommend it to the approval of the meeting. The health of the pupils throughout the year was a subject of thankfulness to all of them. Their progress in the several branches of education in which they were instructed was highly encouraging, and their general conduct deserving of all praise. Even during the absence of Mr. Watson, they seemed to feel that a new responsibility rested on themselves, and they did not disappoint the expectation of their friends. He visited the school occasionally, and always found them orderly and attentive. Mr. Watson, during his six month's absence on leave, utilised his holiday for the benefit of the institution, by obtaining fresh information on the improvements which have recently been introduced into the schools for the deaf and dumb and the blind in England and America, and they were happy to welcome him back again. He paid much attention to the system of articulation, as compared with that of the manual alphabet and signs, and the result of his experience was that for those deaf mutes, who in early life possessed the power of articulation in any degree it was indeed the greatest boon. But the great majority of the deaf and dumb suffered from a defect in the organs of voice, which rendered it a very long and tedious process, and in many instances an impossibility to teach them articulation. On the other hand, the manual alphabet came within the reach of all deaf mutes. Through this silent language they could readily be taught to converse, to read and write, and the ordinary course of school education. The manual alphabet was reliable and expressive, and the signs used were quicker than speech. For instance, if soldiers were the subject, touch the shoulder where epaulets were, and they understood it immediately. In fact, the manual alphabet and articulation were two distinct systems, each adapted for a separate class of deaf mutes; therefore, there should be no antagonism between them. They accepted both, and used both, methods. At the present time they had a class in the institution which had been under instruction in articulation for upwards of two years, and some of the pupils had made considerable progress in that system, as they should presently witness. He would take the present opportunity of correcting a mistake into which many visitors to the institution had fallen, and who had represented the institution as being only an educational school, and not embracing any trade instruction. This mistake arose from the absence of workshops in connection with the building. It should be known, however, that when youths come of age to learn a trade, they apprenticed them out, and had them taught at a tradesman's workshop. In that way five of their young men had been taught trades, and were now able to maintain themselves by the labour of their own hands; and the girls were all taught dressmaking and the use of the sewing machine, as well as all household work. That was all that could be done at present in the way of trades, and that had been accomplished for the last four years with success. He was desirous of having a workshop erected on a small scale, and of an inexpensive kind. They would then be enabled to retain their young men who had learned trades, and utilise their acquirements for the benefit of the junior pupils. Thus when a boy had learned a trade, he would be able to impart it to all the others competent to learn it. That might also contribute something towards rendering the institution self-supporting. The committee also had in contemplation the erection of a hospital, but whether it should be detached or connected with the building was a question demanding very serious consideration. He would desire to commend their interesting cause to the earnest attention of the philanthropic public. He believed there was no other object which possessed a stronger and a purer claim on the affections of a charitable community. The loss of hearing and of speech on the one hand, and the deprivation of sight on the other, presented to their contemplation the saddest and gloomiest phases of human life, which their imagination was capable of conceiving. The deaf and dumb were shut out by nature from all communion with their fellow men; the sources of moral and intellectual perception were cut off from them, and consequently their mind was sealed in darkness, and their life remained a blank. To the blind on the other hand, the whole book of nature, with her exquisite beauty, her sublime lessons of transcendental knowledge, and her glorious illustrations of the character and attributes of the great Creator of all things, was closed, and sealed, and placed beyond their reach for ever. The sun by day to them was darkened, and the moon and stars by night were blotted out of the sky. The bright verdure of nature's beautiful carpet, her sweet and lovely flowers which beamed upon other people's souls with smiles from heaven; her rich and glowing landscape, with all its grand and charming variety, have never spoken to their soul, never stirred up within their breast one emotion of pleasure or enjoyment. Their whole life was one long, weary, solitary night, the blackness of darkness resting upon it. And all this without any fault of their own, or of their parents. "Who did sin?" asked the caviller of old, "this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" Mark the Divine reply, "Neither has this man sinned nor his parents, but that the works of God might be made manifest in him." Let them manifest then the works of God by the kind attention and tender care which they had it in their power to bestow on these, his afflicted children. God had given them an opportunity of repairing the deficiencies of nature by the new organs of sight, of hearing, and of speech, which the institution supplied. They cannot accomplish that themselves; but they could contribute to the good work by giving generously of the means with which God had blessed them. They might thus become the honoured instruments of enabling the friends of the institution to carry on their hallowed work to completion, and bring down a blessing on their own heads.

Mr. WILLIAM FOWLER seconded the proposition with much pleasure, and, on being put, it was agreed to unanimously.

The Rev. Dr. STEEL moved,—"That the thanks of this meeting are hereby given to the Government and Parliament for the annual donation of £450, in aid of the funds of the institution."

Mr. G. F. Wise seconded the resolution, which was agreed to.

Mr. JOHN DAVIES then moved,—“That the following gentlemen do constitute the committee for the ensuing year:—President, the Rev. George King, M.A.; vice-president, Rev. James Milne; hon. treasurer, Mr. Henry Phillips; hon. secretary, Mr. Ellis Robinson; hon. surgeon, Mr. Arthur Renwick, M.D.; committee, Mr. E. T. Beilby, Mr. S. C. Brown, M.L.A., Hon. John Frazer, M.L.C., Mr. J. R. Fairfax, Mr. Robert Hills, Mr. James Henry, Mr. J. R. Linsley, J.P., Mr. F. R. Robinson, Mr. George F. Wise, Mr. J. R. Love, Mr. Joseph Paxton, Mr. E. Saber, Mr. John Mills.”

This was duly seconded by Mr. F. R. Bobinson, and carried unanimously.

After this Mr. WATSON, the superintendent, gave a brief address on the system of teaching mutes to communicate with each other by lip reading, and introduced some of the inmates of the institution for the purpose of practically illustrating the method. These proceedings were regarded with a great deal of interest by those present, and seemed fairly perfect as far as they went. Some blind children then read from embossed books, and others gave proofs of their vocal and musical abilities by playing the piano or singing. Several mutes gave exhibitions of their power to express by signs their feelings to each other, and after the National Anthem had been sung by the children and the audience, the visitors dispersed to have a look over the Institution, or to examine the plain and fancy needlework, knitting, &c., done by some of its inmates.

In the evening the children were given a treat by Mrs. M. Metcalfe.

Widow Hill.—(ANONYMOUS.)

She is my only girl,—
I asked for her as some lost precious thing,
For all in finish'd was love's jewell'd ring
'Till set with this soft pearl.
The shade that time brought forth I could not see
So pure, so perfect, seem'd the gift to me.

Oh! many a soft old tune
I used to sing into that deaden'd ear
And sufficed not the lightest footstep near
Lest she might wake too soon;
And hush'd her brothers' laughter while she lay;
Ah! needless care—I might have left them play!

"Twas long ere I believed
That this one daughter might not speak to me;
Waited and watched, God knows how patiently,
How willingly deceived.
Vain love was long the untiring nurse of faith
And tended hope until it starved to death.

Oh! if she could but hear
For one short hour, that her tongue might teach
To call me "Mother," in the last speech
That thins the mother's ear:
Alas! These sad lips never may be stirred
To the deep music of that I wily word.

My heart it sorely tries
To see her knuck with such a reverent air
Beside her brothers at their evening prayer:
Or lift those earnest eyes
To watch our lips, as though our words she knew,
Then move her own, as she were speaking too.

I've watched her looking up
To the bright wonder of an evening sky,
With such a depth of meaning in her eye,
That I could almost hope
The struggling soul would burst its binding cords,
And the long pent-up thought flow forth in words.

The song of bird and bee,
The chorus of the breezes, streams, and groves,
All the great music to which nature moves,
Are wasted melody
To her,—the world of sound a tuneless void,
While even silence hath its charm destroyed.

Her face is very fair
Her blue eyes beautiful,—of finest mould
Her soft white brow, or which in waves of gold
Ripples her shining hair:
Alas! this lovely temptress' seal must be,
For He who made it kept her in her key.

Wills He the mind within
Shod from earthly Balaam be kept free,
Even that lis "still snap" voice, and stop might be Heard at its inner shrine.
Through that deep hush of soul with clearer thrill;
Then, could I grieve? Oh! untrusting heart be still.

She seems to have a sense
Of quiet gladness in her noisy less play;
he has a pleasant smile, a gentle way,
Whose voiceless eloquence
Toucches all hearts, though I had once the fear
That even her father would not care for her.

Thank God! it is not so;
And, when his sons are playing merrily
She comes and leans her head upon his knee,
Oh! at such times I know,
By the full eye, and tone sublim'd and mild,
How his heart yearns over his silent child.

And God in love doth give
To her delect a beauty of its own;
And we a deeper tenderness have shown
Through that for which we grieve:
Yet shall the soul be acht'd from the ear,
Yea, and my voice shall fill it,—but not here!
